In 1980 Sage published Geert Hofstede's Culture's Consequences it opens with a quote from Blaise Pascal: "There are truths on this side of the Pyrenees that are falsehoods on the other." The book became a classic one of the most cited sources in the Social Science Citation Index and subsequently appeared in a second edition in 2001. This new Sage Encyclopedia of Intercultural Competence picks up on themes explored in that book. Cultural competence refers to the set of attitudes, practices, and policies that enables a person or agency to work well with people from differing cultural groups. Other related terms include cultural sensitivity, transcultural skills, diversity competence, and multicultural expertise. What defines a culture? What barriers might block successful communication between individuals or agencies of differing cultures? How can those barriers be understood and navigated to enhance intercultural communication and understanding? These questions and more are explained within the pages of this new reference work. Key features: 300 to 350 entries organized in a to z fashion in two volumes; signed entries that conclude with cross references and suggestions for further readings; thematic reader's guide in the front matter grouping related entries by broad topic areas; chronology that provides a historical perspective of the development of cultural competence as a discrete field of study; resources appendix and a comprehensive index. The Sage Encyclopedia of Intercultural Competence is an authoritative and rigorous source on intercultural competence and related issues making it a must-have reference for all academic libraries.

As a theme, meetings of cultures in the Black Sea region between conflict and coexistence arouse strong feelings from the remotest antiquity. The indigenous and nomadic non-Greek populations of the Pontic region were persistently viewed as one of the major "Others" first of all by Mediterranean Greeks and because the region geographically was located as a bridge between Europe and Asia it was and still is also part of a Europe-Asia discourse of dichotomy as far back in time as antiquity. Western self-understanding and identity formation has been shaped not least through its colonial experiences until recently such colonial experience has led to a very static picture. In our analysis of colonial encounters however as a result of post-colonialism, post-modernism and now globalization our conception of colonization has undergone a rapid and far-reaching conceptual change. Gone are the days when the Black Sea region was seen as a sea of barbarian wilds enlightened by small flicks of Greek civilization along the coast. Settling the Black Sea region was a challenge for the Greeks compared with the Mediterranean this happened relatively late and the attempt of settling the land was not always equally successful. In fact frequently the power balance was in favour of the indigenous population nevertheless the cultivation of the land and the establishment of exchange systems must have been beneficial for all participants in the exchange network. In this volume the acts of an international interdisciplinary conference held at Sandbjerg Manor House Denmark in January 2006 are published. 19 contributions by scholars from denmark france georgia great britain the netherlands russia and ukraine give a profound discussion of various topics such as the physical arena of the colonial encounters as spaces of identity the layout of land and protection of cities the dynamics of the cultural exchange the perception of how it was to be greek in the pontic realm and finally the reciprocal strategies exerted by the greeks and scythians in olbia as described in herodotos fourth book of his histories through the many sided contributions it is also revealed how self and other is two sides of the same coin yesterday today and tomorrow
